

Shortly after Sir Edmund Hillary's historic 1953 ascent of Mt. Everest with Tenzing Norgay, he asked his Sherpa friends how he could help them. Their answer:

"Our children have eyes but still they are blind. Please build a school in our village".

With that, Sir Ed spent the next 50 years building more than 30 schools and establishing medical centres, environmental programs, vital infrastructure and much more, through his Himalayan Trust.
